The numbers don’t tell you why.

They tell you where to look. Here’s what we’d take from them for your next live event.

01

98,000

of the 99,859 people reached got a calendar invite

Plan the calendar as a channel.

Give it its own list, its own copy and its own owner, the way you would email.

02

Registration is a promise. Show-up is the test.

Spend as much effort on the reminders as on the invite.

- 321 of 1,990 came live (about 16%)

03

25

sales calls came from one live session

Ask for the call while people are in the room.

Put the offer and the booking link inside the session, not in a follow-up a week later.

04

Fix one number at a time.

Find the stage that leaks most. Fix that one. Then run it again.

- 80 sales calls across 11 sessions

One session, four lessons.

01 · Plan the calendar as a channel

02 · Show-up is the test

03 · Ask while they’re in the room

04 · Fix one number at a time
