CONTEXT

Why Most Deals Die In Silence, Not In A No

Deals rarely say no. They go quiet in a stage nobody owns.

No reply. No task. No next step. Nothing happened, so nothing looks wrong.

The pipeline we teach has 12 stages, with a clock on each. These 6 rules make your tools keep that clock, so nobody has to remember.

> The best part? Every rule is a job for a tool, not for a person's memory.

RULE 1

Give Every Stage Four Things

Without all four, a stage is just a waiting room.

- ✓ An entry trigger
  what puts a deal in this stage
- ✓ An action
  what a person does while it's here
- ✓ An automation
  what fires on its own
- ✓ An exit rule
  what moves it on, or out

Missing one? That's the stage where deals go quiet.

RULE 2

Tools Report Events. Events Move Deals.

Nobody drags a card across the board. The tool that saw it happen moves the deal.

A call gets booked	→	Eval Call Scheduled
The call ends	→	Sales Call Held
The booking is cancelled	→	Follow-Up

> If a deal had to be moved by hand, that move isn't wired yet.

RULE 3

Never Rename A Stage

Your automations match the exact text of the stage name. Change one word and they stop finding the deal. No error, no alert.

✓ Proposal Sent

the name every automation looks for

✗ ~~Proposal Out~~

the “small tidy-up” that breaks them all

Same goes for tags. Every sync matches on the exact words.

RULE 4

A No-Show Gets An SMS Within 5 Minutes

With new times to pick from. Not tomorrow. Not when the rep notices.

THE MOMENT
The call is marked a no-show

WITHIN 5 MINUTES
SMS with new slots

RIGHT AFTER
An email with the same slots

SAME DAY
Two call attempts

STILL SILENT
Handed to long-term nurture, never dropped

RULE 5

A Payment Counts Only When The Webhook Says So

- ✗ The rep says it's paid
- ✗ The thank-you page loaded
- ✓ The signed webhook from your payment tool

Only that one moves the deal to Payment Completed and starts onboarding. A browser can be closed or refreshed. A signed webhook can't.

RULE 6

Every Lost Deal Gets A Reason

"Lost" with no reason teaches you nothing. Make the field required, and pick one of four:

Price	Timing
Competitor	Not a fit

Timing isn't a no. It goes to nurture with a date to re-engage, and a door-open email the same day.
