The Book-a-Call Page (With Case Studies)

A page with only a calendar asks for trust it hasn't earned. Put the calendar, the questions, the case studies and what happens on the call on one page, so buyers see the proof before they book.

The page, block by block

1. The promise of the call: what 30 minutes gets them, in one line
2. The calendar, on the first screen, in their time zone

ABOVE THE FOLD ON A LAPTOP

3. The booking questions (they qualify the call and double as your prep)
4. Case studies by stage and industry
5. The proof: numbers from client trackers, testimonials word for word
6. What happens on the call

The booking questions

QUESTION	WHY IT IS THERE
Company name and website	So you can look before the call
Roughly how much revenue does the business bring in a month? (Under $10K / $10K to $25K / $25K to $100K / $100K to $500K / Over $500K)	Matches them to the right case studies
Are you ready to invest in growth in the next 12 months? (Yes / Not yet)	A "not yet" never blocks the booking
Where do most of your new customers come from today?	Tells you which channel to look at first
What is the one thing stopping revenue growing faster right now?	Your first question on the call
Who signs off on an investment like this?	Ask them to bring that person

A "not yet" on budget never blocks the booking. On the call, ask: "Is that timing, or budget?"

Case studies by stage

STAGE	CLIENT AND INDUSTRY	WHERE THEY STARTED	WHAT WAS BUILT	WHAT CHANGED (MEASURED, WITH THE PERIOD)
Startups (under $25K a month)
Traction ($25K to $100K)
Scaling up ($100K to $500K)
Leaders (over $500K)

The proof rules

1. Numbers only from the client's own tracker
   Never a modelled or estimated figure. No number is better than a soft one.

2. Testimonials word for word, names only with a written yes
   Quote people exactly as they gave it. A client without a written yes is "a B2B training company".

What happens on the call

- [ ] 30 minutes on video: we walk your funnel and stop where the drop is worst. Bring the person who signs off.
- [ ] You leave with a next step, or a straight answer that it isn't a fit.

The prompt that drafts your page

Write my book-a-call page

YOUR TASK
Write the copy for my book-a-call page, block by block.

THE FACTS TO USE
What the call is and how long: [FILL]
Who it is for: [FILL]
My case studies: [FILL: client, stage and industry, where they started, what was built, what changed, the period, and their written OK to be named]
Testimonials, word for word: [FILL]

RULES
- Six blocks in this order: the promise of the call, the calendar, the booking questions, case studies by stage, the proof, what happens on the call.
- Only numbers from a client's own tracker. A missing number stays [FILL].
- Testimonials word for word, or not at all.
- A "not yet" on budget never blocks a booking.

WHAT TO RETURN
Each block with its heading and copy.

CHECK BEFORE YOU ANSWER
The calendar is the second block. No number appears that I didn't give you.
